COMPANY SNAPSHOT

International Quality System (IQS) saves industrial companies time and money by diagnosing and eliminating static equipment failures in large-scale production processes predominantly in the pulp and paper industry. This not only allows for improved operational reliability, but also minimizes industrial plant “down time” through nontoxic diagnostic x-ray machines that can run while plant workers are present. Their proprietary software reduces overall maintenance costs by identifying future maintenance needs to avoid emergency plant shutdowns, factors which greatly improve client production and profitability. IQS counts some of Chile’s largest cellulose companies as clients.
